

WEST 8 TO PRESENT AT AMERICAN PUBLIC GARDENS ASSOCIATION ANNUAL CONFERENCE

19-06-2012

On the 22nd of June, West 8 will join Longwood Gardens and Lord Cultural Resources to present a broadminded approach towards strategic, fiscal, and physical master planning. Titled “Creating a Culture of Planning and Leadership,” the lecture will describe Longwood Gardens’ experience working side-by-side with West 8 and Lord Cultural Resources to implement a culture of planning that will direct Longwood’s cultural, garden, and landscape legacy for the next generation.

Claire Agre, Landscape Architect in the New York office, will present West 8’s approach to master planning at Longwood. West 8 will describe a strategic approach to landscape master plans, wherein process, participation, and a deep understanding of the Genus Loci drive master planning on a large and complex site.

The APGA conference takes place in Columbus, Ohio from the 19th to 22nd of June. This is a weeklong conference which brings together public garden professionals from across the United States.
