

BRIDGE VLAARDINGSE VAART

2005-2009, Vlaardingen, The Netherlands

The new crucial connection in the urban and recreational bicycle network calls for a strong identity in the area. By virtue of its location in a natural green setting on the edge of the city, the bridge is both tempting and surprising to its users. An expressive though subtle sculpture establishes the moment of 'crossing' and captures the qualities of the immediate landscape.
